

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

synthesis of geometry, modulation and prefabricated/standardized products

186

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

with prefabrication and standardization of building elements you were capable of optimizing the construction

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

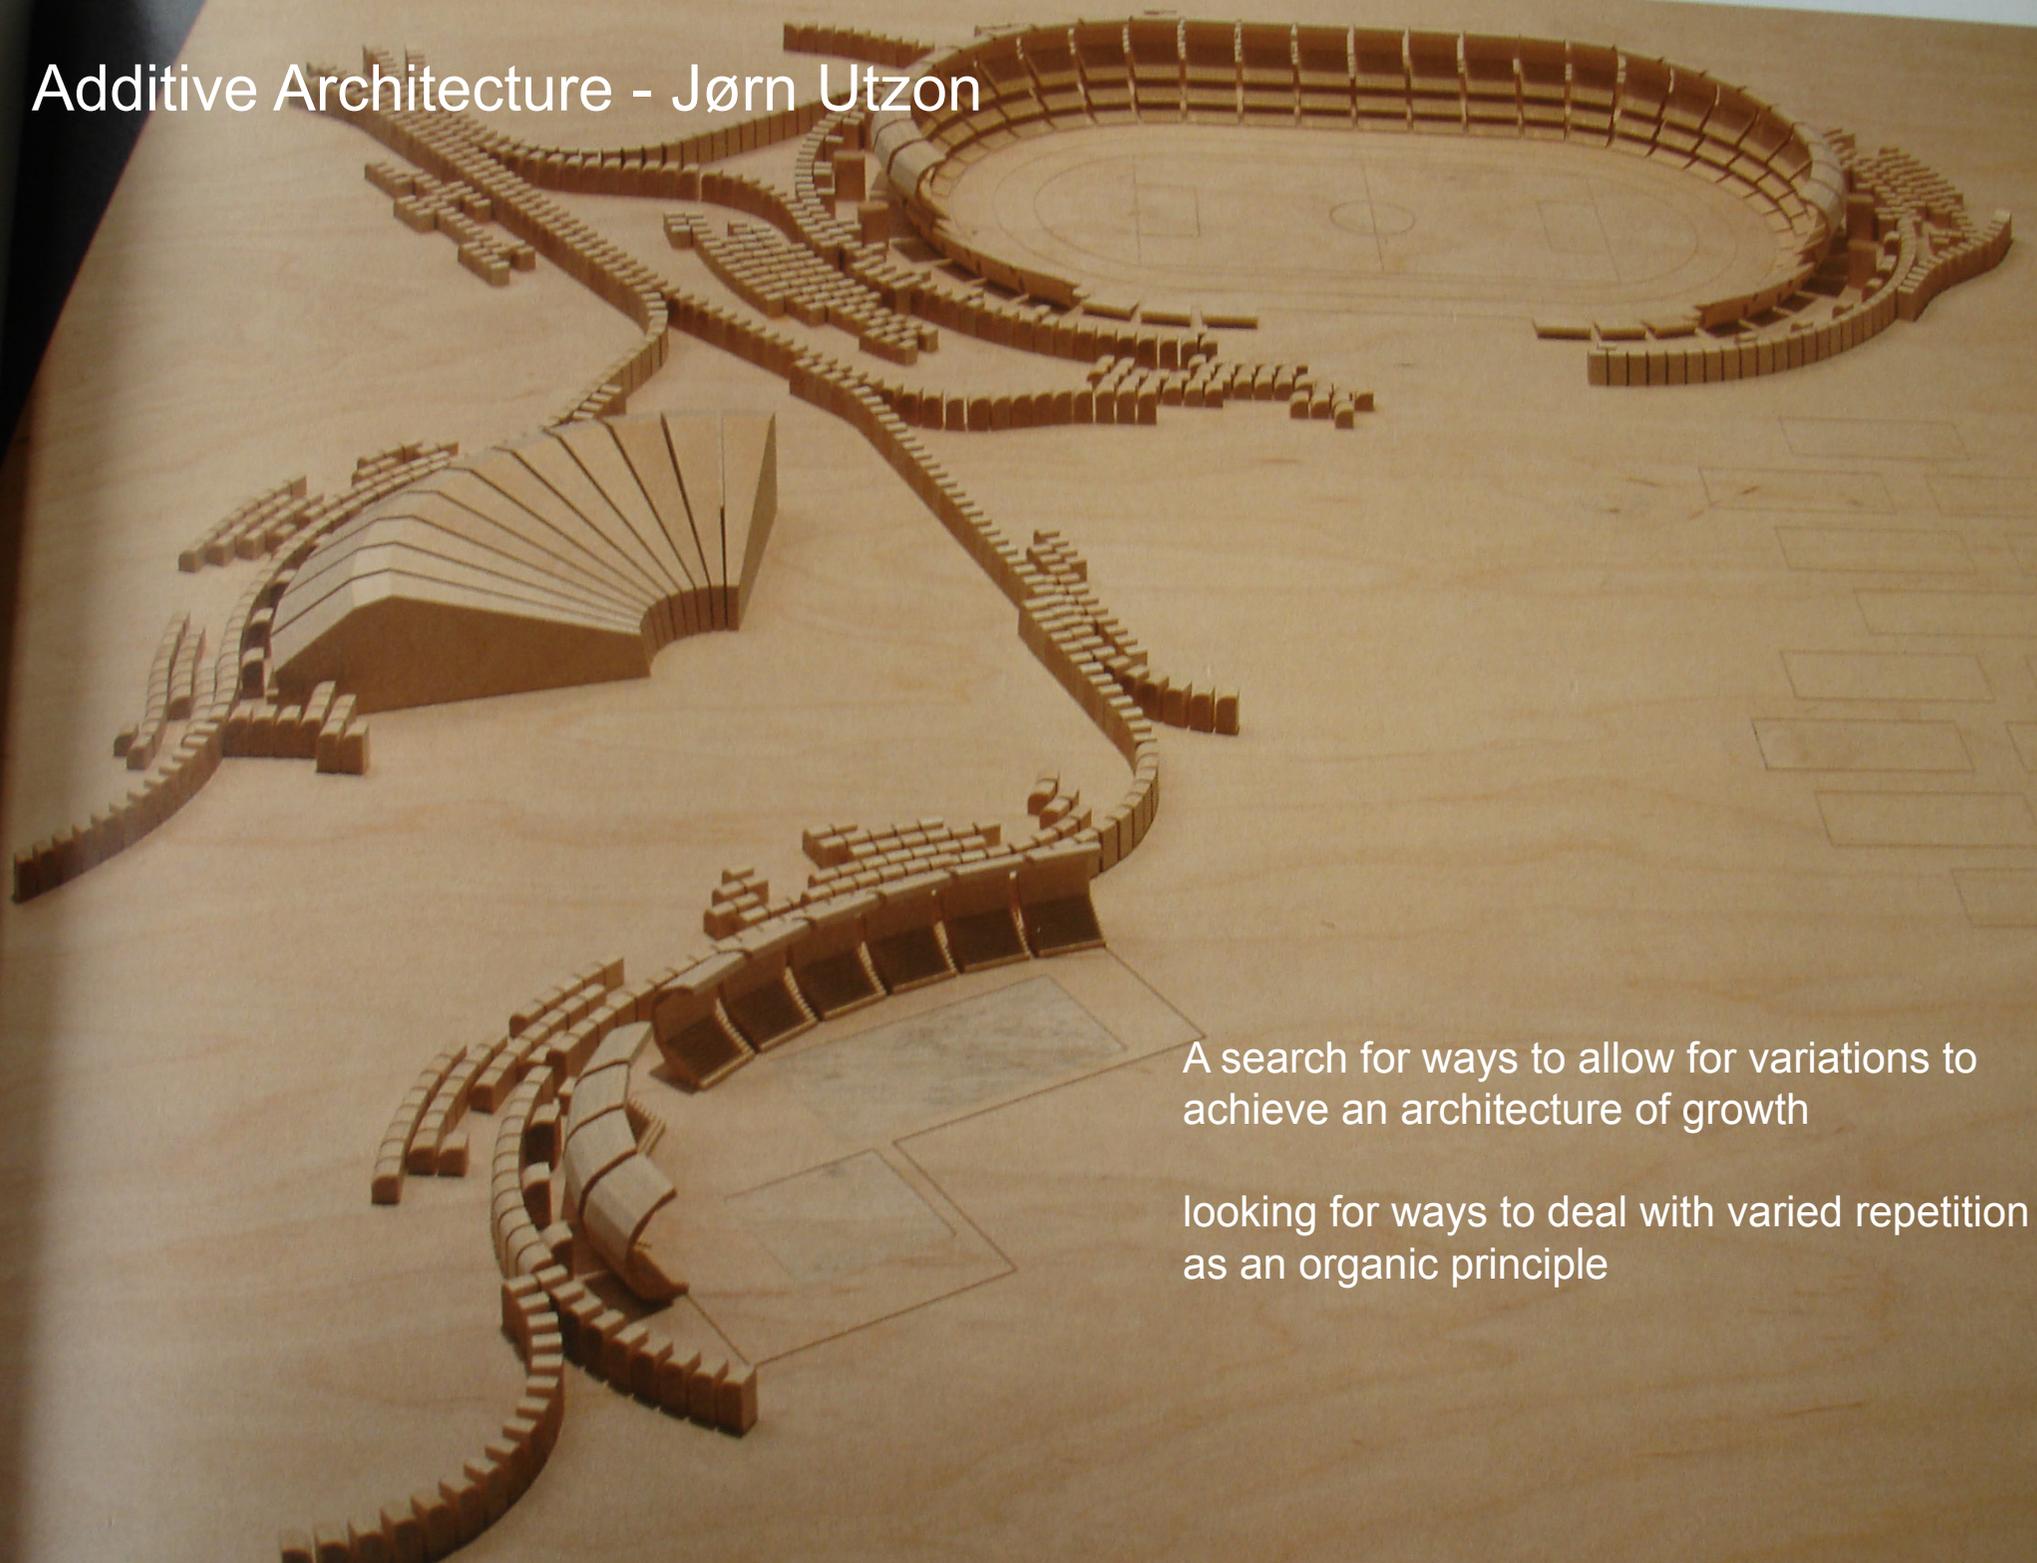

Not only about optimizing construction and pure addition of elements in the light of:

- the economic situation
- the need for housing and
- the building techniques available after WW2

But a search for ways to allow for variations to achieve an architecture of growth

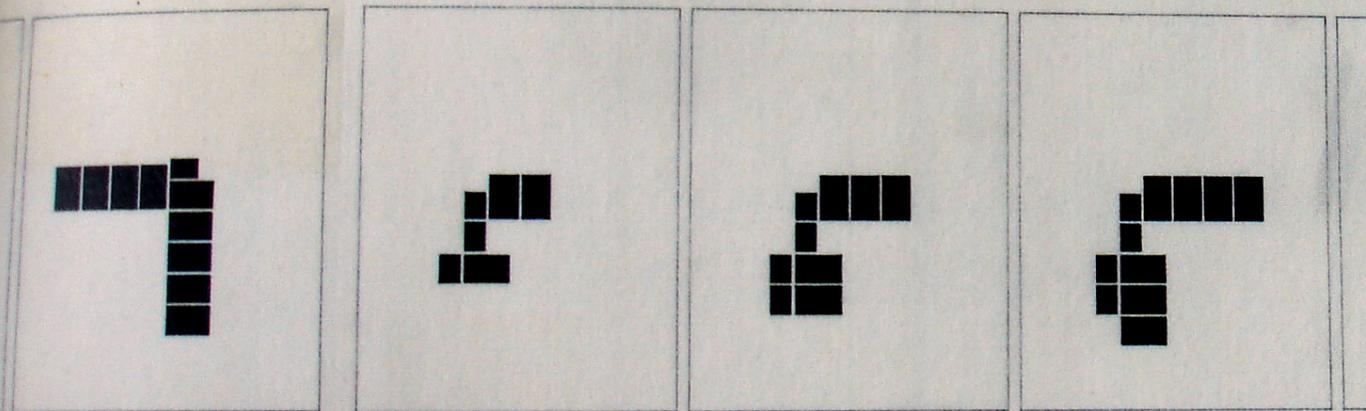

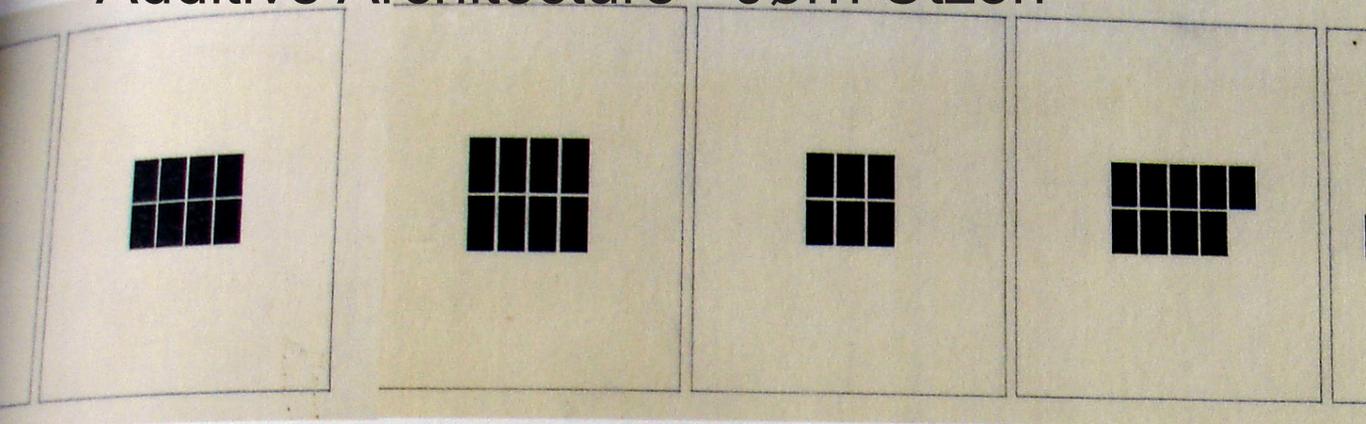

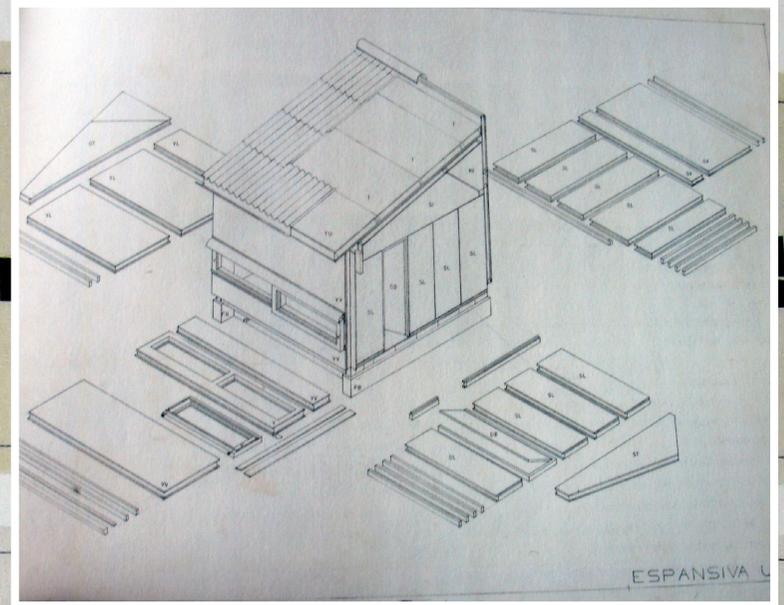

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

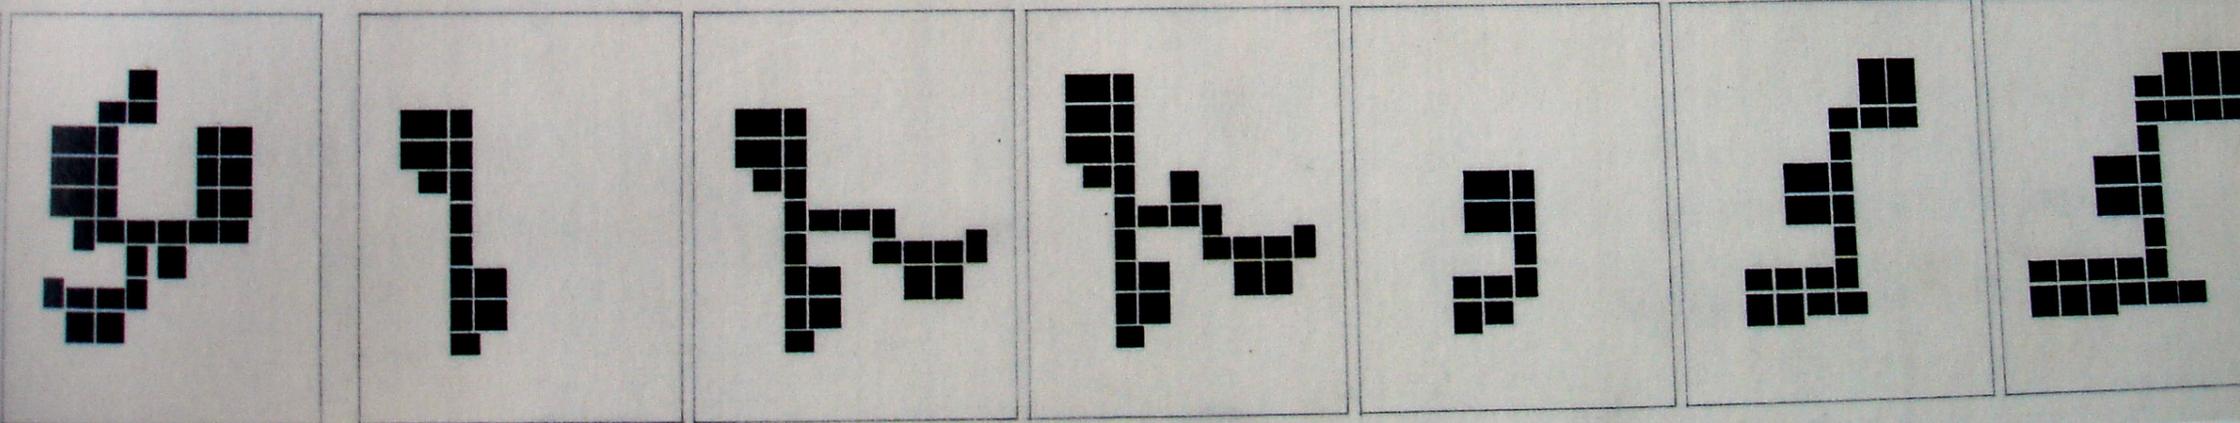

A search for ways to allow for variations to achieve an architecture of growth looking for ways to deal with varied repetition as an organic principle

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

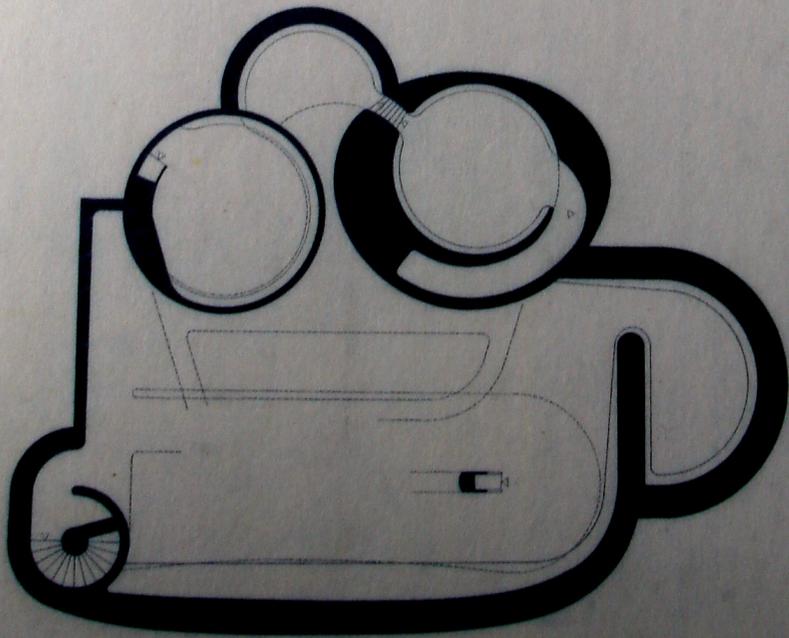

building components as space rather than functions as wall, floor, roof, window etc

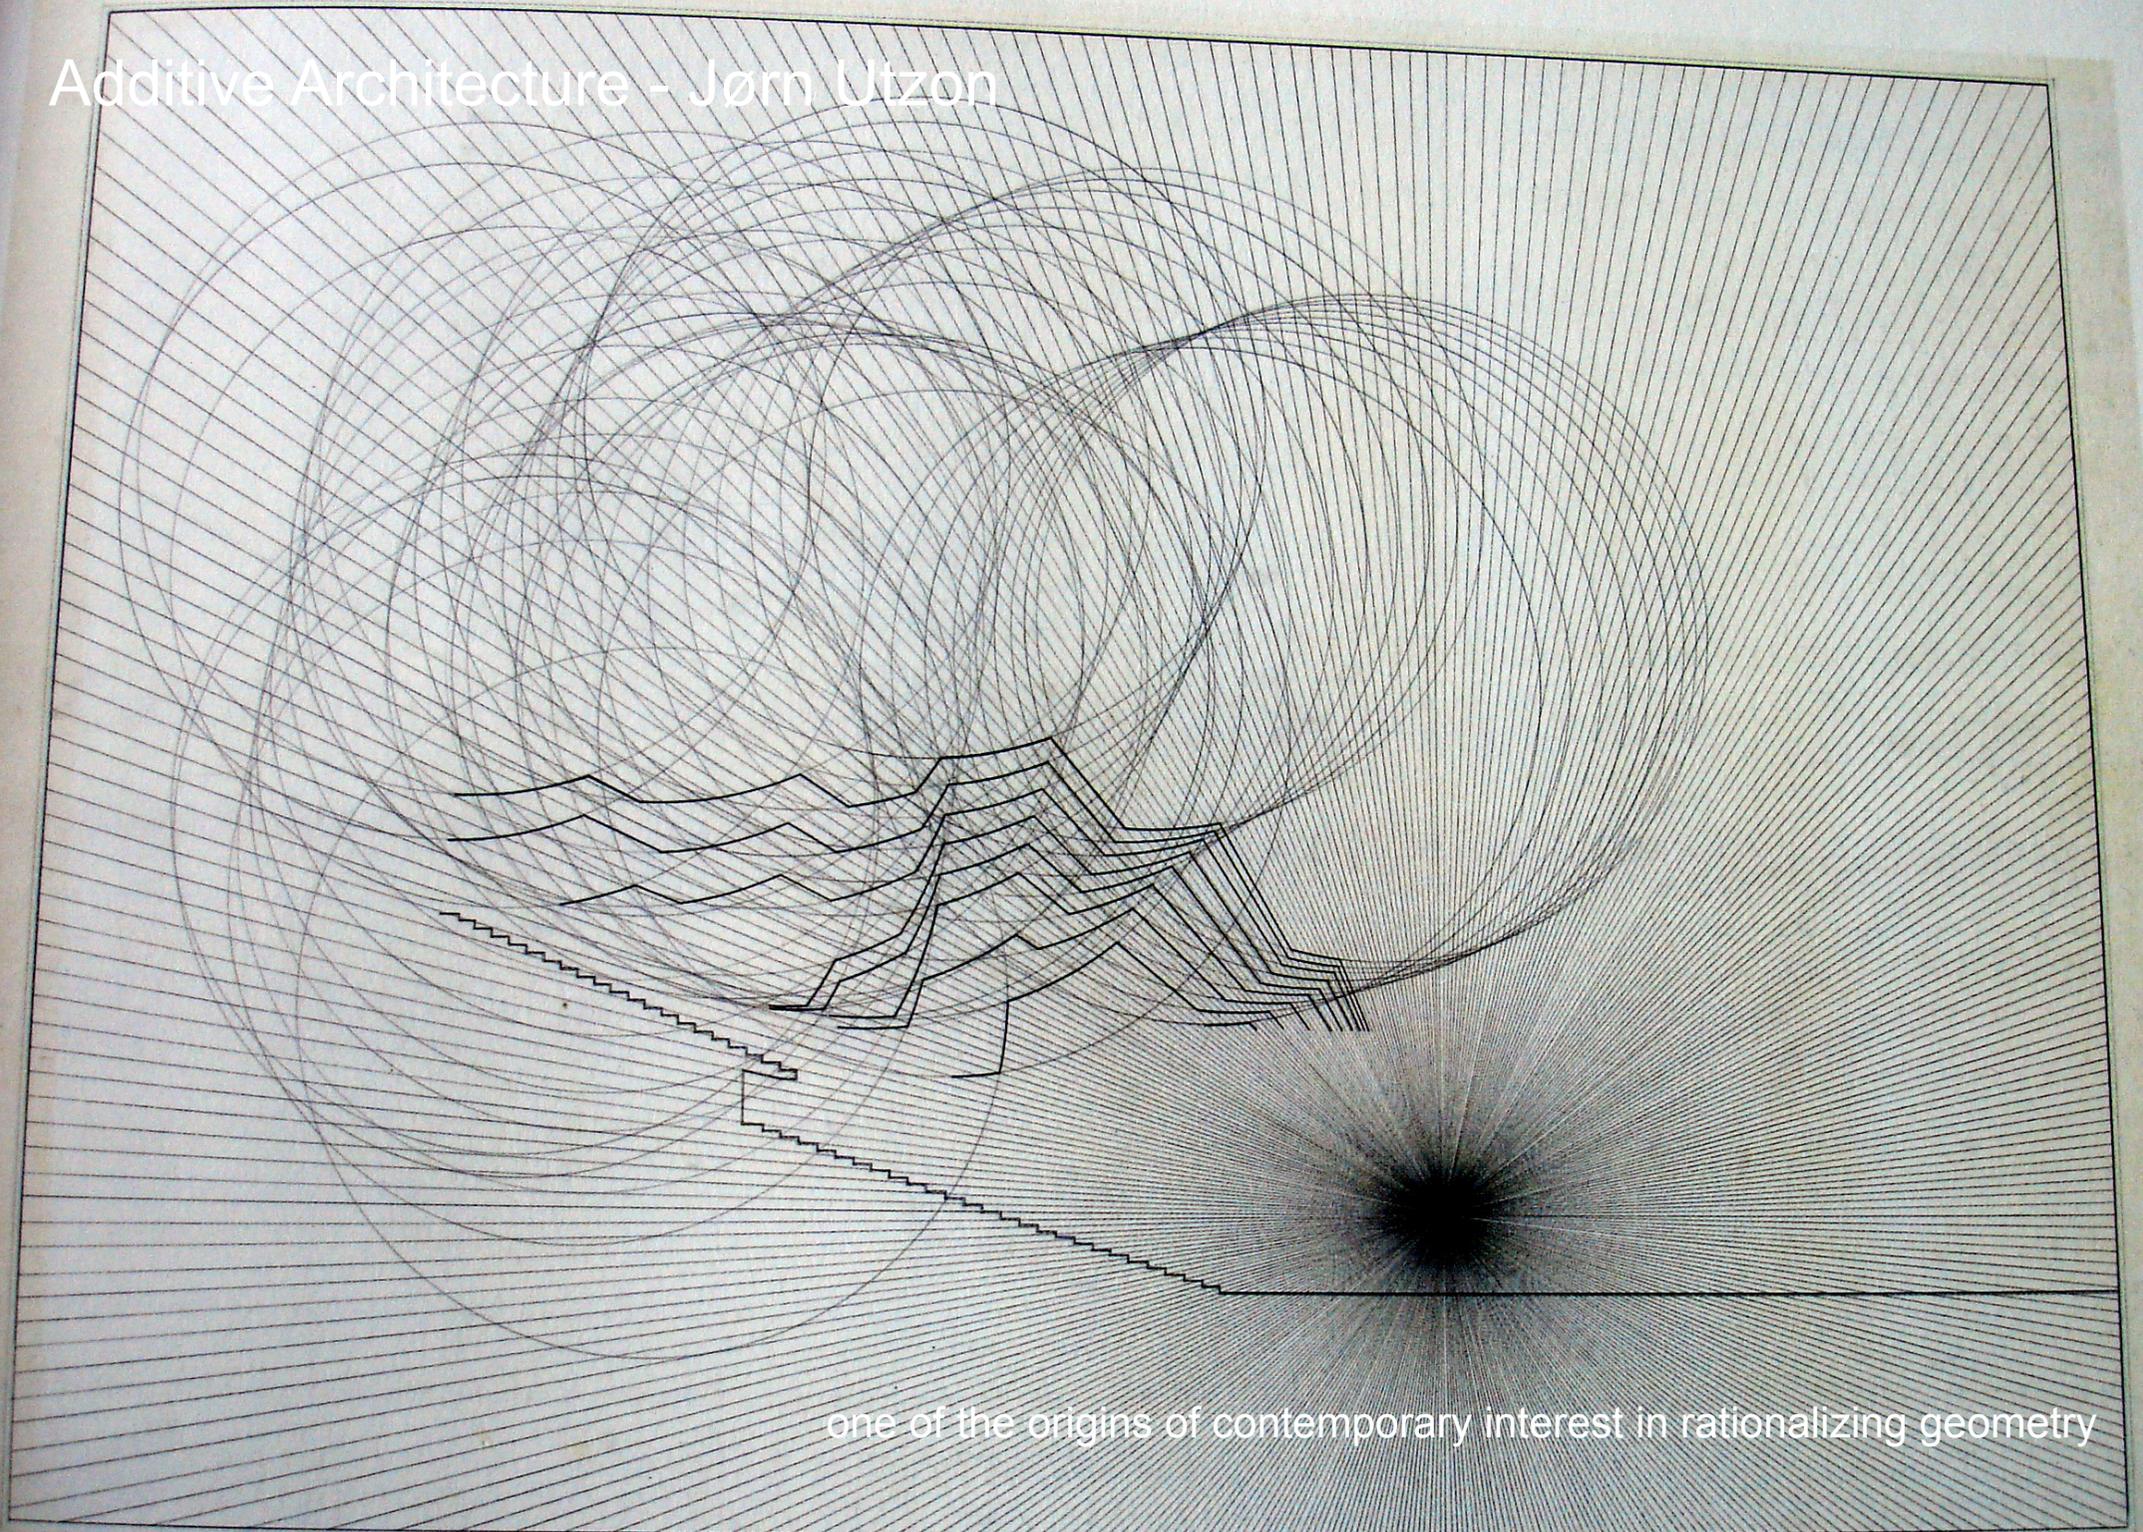

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

new spatial perception Architecture as free open spatial sequences dissolving the transition between in and out new spatial forms due to the evolution of building techniques

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

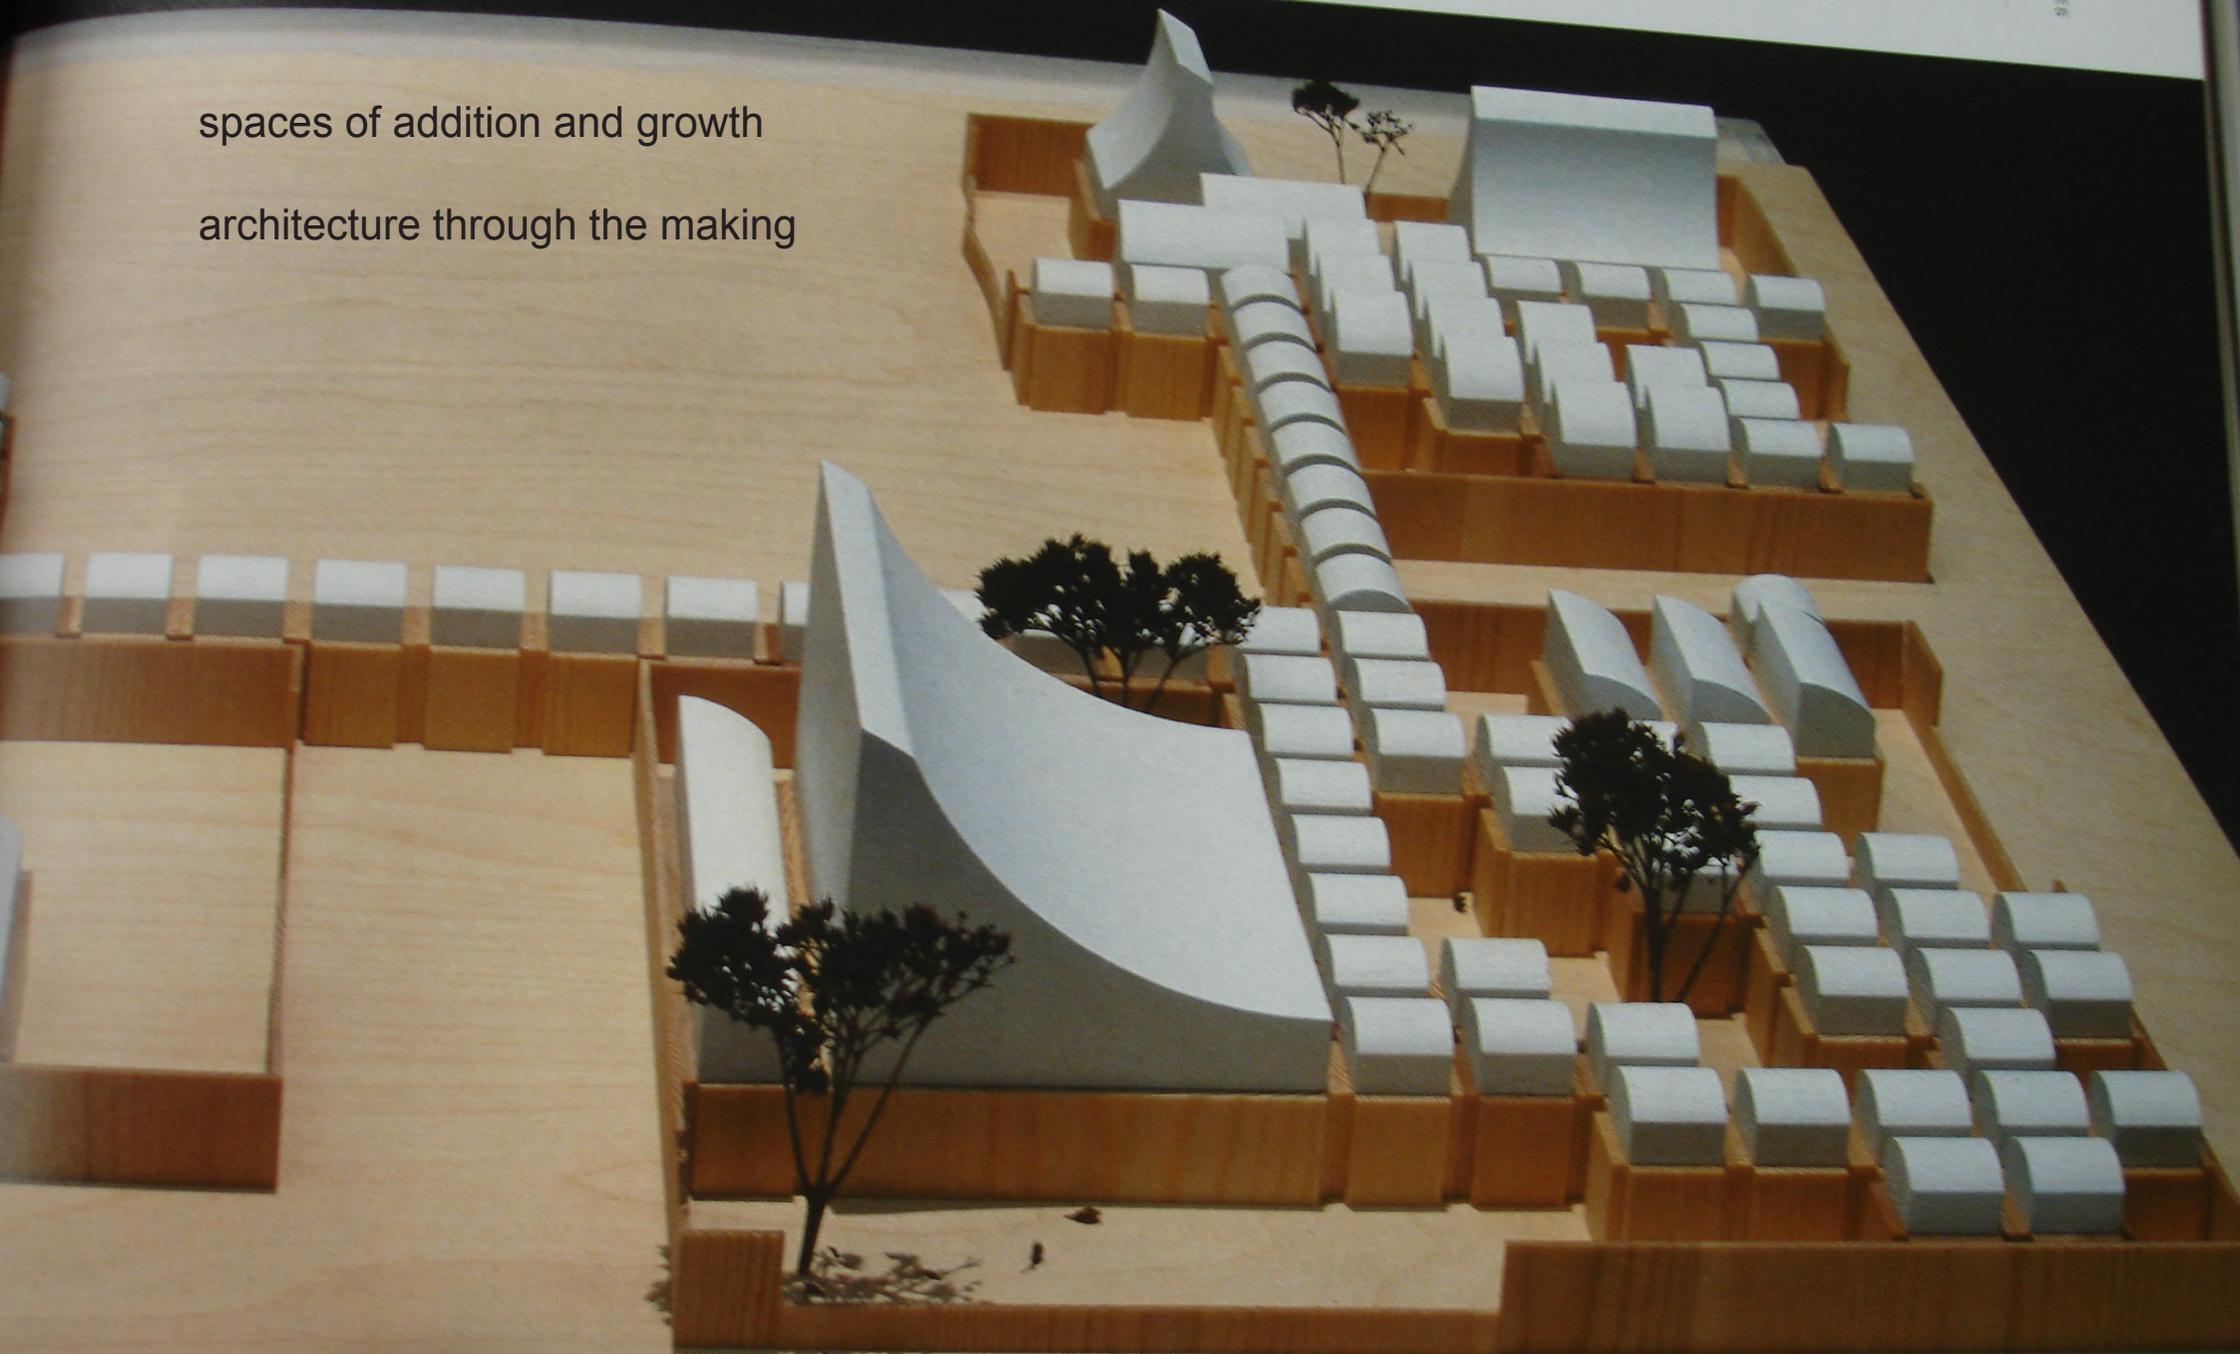

one of the origins of contemporary interest in rationalizing geometry

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

spaces of addition and growth architecture through the making

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

Inspiration

Additive Architecture - Jørn Utzon

“Jørn Utzon” (a Collection of articles by Jørn Utzon)

ed. by L.Davidseb og S.S.Kirkefeldt – 1988

“The Importance of Architects” by Jørn Utzon

”Tendencies in contemporary architecture” by Jørn Utzon and Tobias Faber - Arkitekten 7, 8 and 9, 1947

“Jørn Utzon logbooks vol 1,2,3,4”

ed. by Jørn Utzon et al.

The Jørn Utzon Logbooks are based on the architect’s personal archives and produced with Jørn Utzon’s full involvement

”Jørn Utzon : the architect’s universe / Louisiana Museum of Modern Art”

ed. by Michael Juul Holm - 2004

“Utzon and the new tradition”

ed. by Martin Keiding, Kim Dirckinck-Holmfeld and Christian Norberg-Schulz - 2005